SOFTWARE DEVELOPMENT COMPANY Stixis Technologies Inc. is opening its first U.S.-based development center in Baton Rouge.

The company announced today that the center would create 230 new JOBS with an average salary of $59,500 a year plus benefits by 2019. The center will also result in an additional 233 new indirect jobs.

Stixis is headquartered in Bangalore, India and develops comprehensive SOFTWARE SOLUTIONS coupled with application management, maintenance and support for customers across many sectors, including oil and gas, health care, digital media and entertainment.

Several states were vying to bring in the company, including Virginia, Florida, Texas, Pennsylvania and Wyoming.

Operations will begin immediately at the Louisiana TECHNOLOGY Park in Baton Rouge. Stixis will have the option of leasing and building-out larger space at the park as operations grow. The company will work with Louisiana Economic Development's FASTSTART program to recruit and train future employees at the center.
